Mix Fat Cats and Dark Horses—

WASHINGTON (CP)-"You mean you don't know what a fat cat is?" said the man with political savvy.

"Say, you get a fat cat backing a dark horse and you can have a real interesting time. "But if you want to see the place jump, get a steamroller behind a stampede." The political expert was explaining the lexicon of a presi dential nominating convention It sounded more like a refer ence to a menagerie than to the dignity of political king making. So here are a few definitions to help you understand what goes on in those "smoke-filled" rooms at Los the Democrats and Republi-cans will pick their presiden-tial candidates.

A "fat cat" or "bag man" is a wealthy person or industry providing heavy financial con-tributions to a political party or campaigner. A "dark horse" is a lightweight convention contestant who scores a major upset and romps home with the nomination. The term is believed to have emerged from an old English practice of darkening the mane of a powerful pony to pass it off as a strange filly and thus get better betting odds.

From pioneering days comes the term "bandwagon," the sudden swelling of supporters didate when they think they're backing a winner. In olden days one candidate used bands and wagons in parades and invited the public to ride his wagons if they wanted to support him.

When the crowds start jump ing on his wagons in major proportions, a candidate has proportions a cannada has created a "stampede" in his favor. This his opponents may find hard to stop. Wendell Willkie's backers were accused of launching a stampede in the 1940 Republican convention by packing the convention galler-ies with some 3,000 supporters.

A few other terms: Smoke-Filled Rooms -- An attempt by party big wheels to force the delegates to accept a candidate by back-room manoeuvring.

Favorite, Son - Usually the state delegation leader favored by his own group for the nom ination. They may vote for him on the first ballot as a gesture of respect without any real hope of victory. This also may be a means of pulling votes away from other leading candidates.

Dixiecrats - Democrats of the teep south who band to-gether to fight anyone who opposes southern ways. Demo-cratic leaders have a tough time keeping them in line.

warned they won't be allowed to vote at the convention if they don't first agree to support the winning candidate.

Mugwump — An independent voter who follows no par-ticular party of faction. The term is believed by some to come from an early American has not yet become a full frog.

Ticket — The candidates, president and vice-president, nominated by a political convention.

Stumping - Cross - country campaigning. Pioneer-day candidates, seeking the farm vote, would stand on tree stumps to make their speeches.

Power Experts at Agreement

The B.C. and Ottawa power experts Monday reached some agreement on Columbia River development.

For the first time since they began talks, the policy liaison committee used the positive word "agreement". in a statement after its Victoria session wound up Monday evening.

Federal spokesmen, however, would not elaborate on the significance of the brief statement, which said:

"Agreement was reached on the course to be followed at the next international negotiating meeting to be held on July 14 and 15 in Ottawa"

Justice Minister E. Davie

Observers drew encourage ment, nowever, from use of or not this was resolved.

Both were mum on whether ment on the swas resolved.

British Columbia's representatives at the Monday talks were Lands Minister Ray Williston and Attorney General Robert Bonner.

Mr. Bonner said afterwards things had gone "smoothly".

If they were disappointed they didn't show it.

There was no indication of a further liaison meeting.

Nor was it revealed when a fuller public statement would be made, but all parties are anxious not to tip their hand to the United States.

One of the key issues in United States negotiations is whether the Libby dam,

How to modernize your communications to fit your business picture

Good business is a picture of many things. It is a steadily rising sales curve. An attractive, well-designed office. A capable staff. It is good eommunications.

A study of inter-office communications often shows where efficiency bogs down. Orders held up when someone can't be found. Important calls missed when you're away from your desk. Reefs of memos instead of talking to another department. A Loudspeaker Inter-communication System may be the answer. This gadget is a whiz at finding people! You just press a button on your desk set to speak to other offices.

The intercom is a compact unit. Its award-winning design is colourful, up-to-date. Quite in keeping with modern furniture and modern art. It's just good business to put this smart time-saver on your payroll. And you'll be surprised how little it takes from the kitty to rent it!

The intercom is one of many B.C. Telephone Company business facilities. Others are the telephone, Teletype and key phone. They're all rented. No digging down deep for upkeep or depreciation. Maintenance is our job.

Why Taxes Rise

WHEN MR. BENNETT'S GENerous grant of $50 leaves the home-owner still paying more mu-nicipal taxes than ever this year he should look beyond his own municipality for an explanation. He should look at the provincial Government and, beyond it, to the Federal Government. He should look, particu-larly, at this month's federal-provincial conference.

The reason why local taxes are ing throughout the nation is simply that the Federal and provincial Governments are spending more and more money, and leaving proportionately less and less to the municipal governments. The prob-Victoria has its origin in Ottawa. Though he may not realize it, he is paying in his municipal tax bill for the huge increases in federal spending that began with the election of the Diefenbaker Government.

There is only so much money in Canada. The supply can be in-creased, of course, by the stroke of a pen, but the result, in expanding money, will be to debase its value. Actually the money supply has been stationary since the autumn of 1958, after a large dose of inflation in the previous year.

When the Federal Government takes part of the total supply to pay its own bills, that money comes mainly from urban residents, since most Canadians live in municipali-ties. The provincial governments also are collecting and spending more money than ever. The muni-cipalities, being creatures of the provincial governments and absolutely under their control, have no source of revenue but land and improvements, mostly homes. Hungry for revenue, the provinces will not expand the tax base of the municipalities.

While the provinces share some of their own revenues with the municipalities, these subsidies have proved quite inadequate to meet rising municipal expenditures. Mr. Bennett's grant of $50 for instance, is more than canceled out for many home-owners by this year's rise in the municipal tax rate, or by the juggling of assessments, or both.

In short, all the governments of Canada, from Ottawa to the smallest municipality, are spending more money and the bill must be paid for the most part by municipal residents to the three tax collectors.

At the approaching conference between the Federal and provincial Governments the latter will demand more subsidies from the national treasury. When Premier Frost of Ontario demands "a lot more" than the $100 millions a year which he expected earlier we may be sure that Mr. Bennett and other premiers will match those demands.

If the Féderal Government agrees, the provinces will have more money and some of it may trickle to the municipalities. But who will supply this money in the first place? Mainly the people of the municipalities because they are the Federal Government's main source of revenue. The bill, wherever it originates, comes back to the local freedom, on June home-owner, or the tenant, through his rent.

From this iron circle of taxation there is only one possible escape. It is to prevent, or at least slow down, the increase in spending by all governments while the nation's wealth grows and taxes take a smaller percentage of it.

That is a pretty slim hope at best. For all governments seem determined to spend more money-at the demand of the very people who resent higher taxes - and the nation's wealth at the moment is not growing on a per capita basis; it actually fell in the first quarter of this year. The average home-owner is slightly less able to pay his taxes this year than he was last year. But the bill is larger because, through all three levels of government, he is insisting on higher avangulations. is insisting on higher expenditures.

So the Congolese worship the mystery called Independence and we pity these poor wretches in their jungle. But considering our own longer experience, some of our own illusions are just as pathetic—the illusion, for example, that our democracy can solve all human problems if we can only export it to oblems if we can only export it to problems it we can only export it where eager, yearning masses of mankind who, in fact, don't want it and wouldn't know what to do with it anyway, while we ourselves don't make it work too well after a century or two of experiment.

OR again, the illusion that the deep forces of conflict, economic interest, prejudice, racial antagonism and bitter memories can all be resolved if only Mr. Khrushchev would mend his manners, or the Americans would be a little more reasonable, or abler diple stead of boys sent on a man's errand.

Always the magic box, in the dark Congo or the enlightened Western capitals—the old hope of miracles, the child's faith in fairies, Always the carrot before the donkey's nose while the hard sticks of life prod him from behind in what we call a cruel, unnatural, tempor ary process which is actually the law of life. Always the attempt to find the easy way out when there is none.

NOT many statesmen (if they hope to be elected) will publicly admit that there is none. The Western world owes, but probably will not pass a vote of thanks to Mr. Nixon who, in an uned that the struggle of international power might last for 50 years if it were not ended by the only quick, easy solution the nuclear solution.

There is the final fact which, in their different circumstances, the educated Western man and the naked African pygmy cannot bear to face—that the struggle will be long and hard, that our lifetime and probably that of our children and grandchildren will be distracted by perpetual crisis, that there is no safe, easy way out.

Yet the whole drift and motion of Western democracy in recent years has been toward a magic box of one kind or another, the magic box of the Summit which fell to pieces in Paris, the magic box of secret diplomacy which will put it together again, or in domestic affairs the magic box of the all-wise State which, given enough power and taxes, can solve THE motion in the democracies, whose

WASHINGTON:

Splendid

BY JOSEPH ALSOP

THE first half of the year 1960 has been darkened by disaster and hu-miliation; and these have been made by the torrents of synthetic twaddle poured out to obscure the harsh outlines of the hard, harsh fact. Merely as a counter-demon stration then, it may be pardonable to celebrate the least syn-thetic thing that the United States has produced in 1960, which happens to be a book. Felix Frankfurter Reminisces" is a book without any close par-allel, as far as this reporter can recall. The volumes nearest to it are the books of "table talk" that were fashionable a "table talk" that were fashionable a hundred years ago. "The Table Talk of Samuel Rogers." for instance, and the imitation of the Rogers book that was based on the conversations of Justice Story. But these were pruned, dressed up, and dead as mutton, compared to this new book of verbatim recordings of Justice Frankfurter's outspoken recollections of his life. lections of his life.

American Classic

This book one may as well say it boldly and plainly-is nothing more or less than a new American classic. It is a minor classic, because it is artless. Even the best talk is bound to be artless, unless retouched.

It is classic, all the same, because it is human, funny, brave, noble, inspiring and endlessly entertaining, all in one splendid jumble.

The stories are incomparable. There is the anecdote, too long for this space, about how the august Henry L. Stimson descended to calling another man an s.o.b. There is a later Secretary of War, Lindley M. Garrison, "a very nice man, very ill-equipped for his job," who warned one of his assistants proudly:

"I can assure you, once my mind is closed, it's closed!"

There is the wonderful description, by the wife of the senior Henry Morgenthau, of how her vain, pretentious but originally timid husband became first accustomed to and then enchanted by the sound of the human voice when publicly uttered by himself.

Mixed Compliment

There is Justice Frankfurter's own description of a famous American proconsul, descended from Ralph Waldo Emerson, through whom the blood of the Concord Sage "must have passed without stopping."

"He proved," remarks the Justice,
"that being disinterested and having a high sense of public duty doesn't always mean that you promote the public good.

But the jokes and the portraits which are unkind are far less important in this hook, than the opinions on public topics, so oddly presented with mingled sharpness and grandeur, and the admiring, even loving portraits of towering figures like Brandeis and Holmes, the two Roosevelts, Stimson and many others.

And these brilliantly lifelike portraits of great men from the crowded galleries of a rich and crowded life are less important, in their turn, than the uncon scious and unposed self-portrait of Jus-tice Frankfurter, which is the whole

The Soviet leader must know that Western leaders share his understanding of nuclear facts; that they, too, realize a nuclear war would destroy both sides and probably all mankind. It follows that Mr. Khrushchev must know that the West will not start a war.

Surely this common knowledge, and this common realization, must provide a starting point for disarmament talks. Once having acknowl-

Diabetes and Leukemia

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

One of the next big advances in medicine is now coming because of a study of medical genetics. Every month interesting discoveries are being made in this field, and they fas cinate me. Now, I read that a recent meeting of the California Medical Association, Dr. Daniel Stowens, while reporting studies of 285 children with a cute leukemia, noted that in 25 per cent of them there was some member of the family who had diabetes. Among non-leukemic children, such a relation to diawas found in only 4 per cent of

Also interesting was the fact that 10 per cent of the leukemic children had diabetes, and all of the leukemia children had abnormal cells in their islets of Langerhans. This is the abnormality found in all but some rare cases of diabetes. What does this mean? It means that there is some relation between the two diseases that we must now study with care; which reminds me that recently it was found that quite a few mongoloid mentally retarted children have leukemia. Even more of them have leukemia-like ab-normalities in their white blood cells.

We doctors often learn something about rare diseases by studying these strange re-lationships. A while ago I helped open up one of these fascinating fields in medicine by making a record of all of the curious symptoms and diseases that came to bother 673 people—all of them patients of mine—and all with one or several relatives suffering from mental troubles, alcoholism, or epilepsy.

I am constantly being distressed by the fact that when a sullen-looking youth is brought into court for having committed some crime of violence or vandalism, usually no one thinks to have made some electro-encephalograms (records of the tiny electric currents constanly being formed in the brain.) Often such records, if made, would ahow the lad to be an epileptic—without fits. In several such studies made of psychopathic delinquents, 60 or 70 per cent of them have been found to have a definitely abnormal brain.

This shows that such youths cannot be made over by any amount of psychotherapy.
One might as well try to talk a lad-out of having symptoms from a brain tumor.
Also, if the lad has a disease of the brain

Also, if the lad has a disease of the brain which makes him often bad-tempered, violent, and even murderous, then he does not merit punishment, but still he should be put away where he cannot be a menace to the public. Possibly treatment with an "anticonvulsive" drug will help him. The judge must not expect him to be cured with psychotherapy, and the lad must not promptly be paroled, as he usually is today. Unfortunately, these days, too much about delinquents is written by analysts who do not have to study these young men because their arm-chair theories tell them from the start all they need to know. Also, we cannot expect an analyst ever to get electro-

Sometimes, in these spells, the youngster got sick and had abdominal cramps, vomiting, rapid heart beat, and perhaps a "black-out." von't affect certain businesses if two amendments proposed onday are written into the law before it is given third and final reading next Monday.

The bylaw will enable the city to tax businesses annually an assessment basis or pay the usual trades licence if that nount is the higher of the two.

The tax is to raise two or three thousand annually to "maintain the efficiency of the city."

Mayor J. T. Dobson said that the growing city demanded new services, the council has to provide these services, and the services have "got to be paid for." The proposed amendments will exempt those businesses who are manufacturing, or industrial concerns.

The second amendment would exempt 50 per cent of the tax on large retail outlets that provide one unit of parking for

BRANCH RICKEY

The Continental scheme calls for representation in New-York, Toronto, Buffalo, Atlanta, Dallas Fort Worth, Houston, Minneapolis St. Paul and Denver.

Branch Rickey, Bill Shea and Company could have acquired Atlanta free, gratis and for nothing, Earl Mann turned the rights there back to the Southern Association when he could no longer battle big league games televised into the once-prized AA setup. The Dodgers took over to-bail out the league. New Orleans chucked it, enabling Little Rock to resume operations with no initial investment Louisville could have been acquired a year ago for the asking. That is how Charleston, W.Va., got in the American Association. Omaha could have been picked up the same way when it was in this circuit. This could go on and on. These clubs quietly obtained and for little or nothing on the dollar could have been Continental League feeders.

. . . HERE AND THERE . . . With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Collector of odd stories is retired CPR official Jack Graves, now living at the Empress Hotel, He tells of the newcomer to a Veterans' Hospital ward who was puzzled when the man in the next bed called out

"Ho, ho, ho!" went the patients, whereupon another man called out "Number 5," another "Number 7" and another "Number 3."

The newcomer was increasingly puzzled until his neighbor explained:

"We heard so many stale jokes around here we de-cided to number them and just call out the numbers. It saves a lot of trouble and boredom."

"In Rome everybody seems to impose on the visitor," sighs travel expert George L. Warren in a letter from the Eternal City.

He took a taxi three times from his hotel to the down town tourist bureau and each time the fare asked by the driver increased substantially. On the fourth trip Mr. Warren paid only what was shown on the taxi meter—and didn't wait to hear the language! It was in Italian anyway.

Government House Luncheon

Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross, wife of the Lieutenant Gov-ernor of British Columbia will give a dinner in Government House on Thursday for the wives of the deputy ministers of British Columbia.

On Friday Mrs. Ross will attend a luncheon given by Lady Maze in her Beach Drive home. Miss Ruth MacLean will accompany Mrs. Ross.

In Vancouver on Wednesday, Mrs. Ross will attend a reception given by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Disher in their Angus Drive home and that evening will attend a dinner given by Col. and Mrs. H. R. MacMillan, in Vancouver Hotel, in honor of Lord and Lady Heyworth. On both occasions, Miss MacLean will accompany Mrs. Ross.

Authors Guests at Reception

Friday afternoon, delegates attending the Canadian Authors' Association convention in Victoria, will be guests of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross at a reception in Government House.

Friday evening the awards dinner will be held in the Crystal Ballroom at the Empress Hotel when the Government of British Columbia will act as host.

On Thursday those attending the convention will enjoy a picnic meal in the Butchart Gardens, hosted by the T. Eaton Company and in the evening will be present at the first symphony concert of the season in the gardens.

A coffee party will be held tonight in the Empress tel, following registration, and official opening will take place this evening. Coffee party host will be McLelland Stewart and Company. A second coffee party Wednesday night will be hosted by the Ryerson Press.

Suburban Living Compared; New Hour-Long Mystery Series at 10

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

CATCHING UP-At time of writing this it seems bordering upon blasphemy to be speaking about autumn when we haven't yet lost winter. However, let that ride: British American Oil says it's going to repeat its TV sponsorship of major league Canadian football again this year. In all, the oil boys will sponsor half again this year. In all, the oil boys will sponsor half of each of the CBC's coverage of 32 games—21 Big four games and 11 Western Interprovincial sprawls to 133.00 plus the playoffs in both series and the Grey Cup final.

BA's blurb states that four more WIFU games than last year are up for televising, with one game weekly from Aug. 20 to the conclusion of regular scheduled games on Oct 29. The first televised WIFU game will be the Saskatchewan-B.C. game set for Saturday, Aug. 20 at 8.30—which doubtless will be blacked out in this area.

blacked out in this area.

CBS 'will be carrying the 1960 Democratic and Republican conventions for the edification of their viewers, in this area through facilities of Channels 7, es so 11 and 12. More than 18 months of intensive planning, 29.50 25 tons of delicate electronic equipment worth millions as so of dollars and a news and production team of almost 54.55 400 personnel are among the elements that go into such a show, the web asserts with pardonable satisfaction: General Motors has selected CBS for Danny Kaye's event. It was only recently that the popular comedian signed his name to a contract for three programs in

> WELL, THAT'S ALL FOR TODAY. As a matter of fact it is all for the next fortnight or so as the Lee clan sailies forth to Sait Spring Island to joust with nature and the natives. In the interim one, Mike Rose, will look after you to the best of his ability which is considerable. You Malone in 1954's "Loophole." A bank teller is accused are in good hands and so is he.

Just What Is a Junior Executi

NEW YORK (AP)—The mystery man of today's business world is "the junior executive."

Who is he? What is he? Where is he?

The junior executive appears to be a postwar phenom.

Now, it seems, he has become the second lieutenant of industry. He is fresh from the ranks but still far, far from the command post.

He has an air of studied neatness. His hat is two sizes small for him, his suit looks as if it had been shrunk to fit him. His tie is as slim as his wallet.

He lives in a small white house with a small white mortgage, a neat blonde wife, and two neat children a pretty blonde daughter and a mischievous freckle-faced

In the ads there is no doubt about who or what or where the junior executive is.

But in real life the picture isn't clear at all.

Here are a few definitions of the junior executive, gleaned from a random poll of Manhattan office em-

B.C. highway builders are experimenting on the toughest terrain in Canada,

A four lane portion of the Trans - Canada Highway at Maillardville, just outside Vancouver, is the testing ground. The land there is mostly pea the type of surface usually by - passed by road-builders. Muskeg is a similar hazard. It shifts and sinks and is too changeable.

Muskeg covers 10 per cent of Canada and a great part of B.C.'s north.

SHORT ROUTES

If the experiments at Malllardville are successful, it will mean road-builders can take advantage of the shortest and easiest routes, and save what is sometimes a difference of as much as $100,000 a mile in detours.

The contractors at work nea Maillardville have found that they can press much of the moisture out of the peat there and create a harder - packed

This is done by what they have called "surcharging". that is packing the peat with about 11 feet of fill above the proposed highway surface line The fill subsides gradually strengthening and solidifying the peat. After about a month the amount of fill still above the surface line — about five feet — is removed and paving begins. Highways officials are closely studying the sections of high-way on which this process has been tried. They say it may take 20 years of observation before they can be fully sure of the effects.

Scorcher Again

Hot sun and a faint breath of air combined to-day to smash one temperature record, push the thermometer to its highest point so far this year and send the mercury to an unofficial 91 downtown.

At 2 p.m. the official reading at the Gonzales Hill Observatory was 77.2 degrees and still climbing.

This easily broke the 76.2-degree record high for July 5 set 54 years ago. Relative humidity, fortunately, held to a low 49 per cent as no relief came from a barely-moving northeast breeze lazing along at eight miles per hour.

After a brief respite with a 55-degree low for tonight, Victorians may sizzle toward another record Wednesday.

The hot weather will continue tomorrow and it is possible, depending on whether or not there is any burst of cool air off the water, that we will break the 82.3-degree record set for July 6 in 1953," said forecaster William

Current heat wave has given four consecutive days of maximum sunshine—15.1 hours per day—and has pushed high temperature readings up steadily from a 69 July 2 to today's record.

"The picture hasn't set enough yet to predict what it will be like Thursday, but the usual pattern of these heat waves is four or five days and then a drop in temperature to cooler levels," Mr. Mackie said.
